

HIS ALLEGED DAUGHTER WAS KAGA'S VICTIM

Japanese Lurking and Plotting to Spirit
Toma Away.

SHERIFF TO THWART THE SCHEME

JAPANESE SLAVE OWNER CHARGED WITH ATTEMPTING TO COMMIT MURDER.

Would Deny Former Damaging Admissions After He Used the Knife
on Iwilei Chatter—Brought Another Stockade Woman as His Wife.

Toma, the woman who was slashed with a knife in the hands of Kaga at Iwilei Thursday morning was brought to these islands a little over a year ago as the alleged daughter of the man who sought to take her life. She is a small link in the tangled chain of the Japanese custom, which binds to these islands the infamous combination of slavery and prostitution that prevails in the Orient.

Kaga was arraigned in police court yesterday morning. He was charged with an assault with intent to commit murder. Attorney J. T. De Bont appeared for him, reserving plea until Monday when the case will come up again.

After a night's rest in jail Kaga looked more sane and bright than he did when he reeled into the police station the night before. With the fatigue had also disappeared his reckless and helpless manner. The Kaga of yesterday morning was an alert Japanese, aware of his dangerous position and quick to avail himself of every precaution that might contribute to his defense. He told Deputy Sheriff Chillingworth that he was drunk out at Iwilei Thursday morning but denied having had a knife or that he had bound one with Iwilei. His story yesterday morning was merely a spasm of instinctive self preservation following his fit of hopelessness and despair of the evening before.

Kaga originally came to the Hawaiian Islands as a contract laborer ten years ago. He worked out his time and then went into the business out of Punahele way. A little more than a year ago, he sold out his business for $2,000. He then went back to Japan, only to come to the islands again as a contract laborer bringing with him an alleged daughter and wife, the former being Toma. Since their arrival, Kaga has been operating at Iwilei. He dispensed soda water and kept a shooting gallery near the stockade and his alleged wife and daughter were registered habitués of the great official dive.

High Sheriff Brown does not intend that Toma, who now lies in the Japanese hospital in a precarious condition, shall be surreptitiously removed, or unduly influenced, in order that the ends of justice may be defeated. With this contingency in view he appeared in the circuit court yesterday, and filed a motion for the arrest of the Japanese woman as stating that she is a material and important witness for the prosecution. Since the Iwilei slave has been confined to the hospital several suspicious acts have been frequently seen about the place, and were caught hovering near by attempting to carry on communication with the woman.

The officers have information to the effect that Kaga, the man now in the custody of the sheriff, is a member of a society to which many of the male parasites of the stockade belong, and they are making a determined effort to sidetrack the star of justice if such a thing can be done. They are working tooth and nail to remove evidence of the crime, as well as witnesses, and it has been their boast that the woman would not be on hand to give testimony.

However, their threats stand a poor show of being carried out. The motion now on file will result in the woman's being taken to a place of safety upon her release from the hospital.

TO WELCOME IT WITH MUSIC.

Hawaiian Band Will Play the Old Year Out and the New Year In.

Captain Berger's Hawaiian band upon the suggestion of Governor Dole will give something of a novelty in the way of a midnight concert on New Year's eve, which is also the end of the century. The following letter tells the story:

Honolulu, December 28, 1900.

Dear Captain Berger,

I would recommend that the band play solemn music at the Capitol grounds for half an hour or so before midnight, Monday night, to be followed after midnight with joyous music for half an hour or so; and then the band play through several residence streets, say Hotel to Alakea to Berea to Nuuanu to School to Emma to Berea to Alapai to King to the Capitol or something less, if that is too much.

With New Year's greetings,
SANFORD B. DOLE.

EQUITY CANNOT INTERFERE.

Circuit Court Sustained in Case of Akeau vs. Iakona Over a Will.

The supreme court handed down a decision yesterday in the case of Peko Akeau vs. Iakona. Kahue and Nua Kuli in which the decision of the lower court is sustained. In the opinion it was brought out that courts of probate have jurisdiction to admit to probate wills of real property as well as of personal property, and may set aside for fraud wills so admitted, and the practice has been to apply for revocation of probates to the probate courts themselves without going into equity.

It is ruled that a court of equity cannot on the grounds of fraud set aside a decree of a probate court admitting a will to probate, the alleged fraud consisting in adding the name of a second witness to the will after the death of the decedent.

HACKMAN RESENTS IT WHEN HE IS OVERCHARGED

Green Objects to an Item of Ten Cents Demanded by the Police for a Rate Card.

A rebellion among the hackmen seems to be brewing. The average hackman is happy except when he has no load. He talks more than a barber and is as garrulous as a hen, but he never kicks. At any rate, he was not classed as a kicker until lately. His disposition to howl calamity and say seditious things about the police, dates from the passage of the new hack regulations.

According to hackman George Green, who was discussing the subject in police court yesterday morning with Judge Wilcox, Rule 27 of the regulations is a relic of the dark ages and ought to be consigned to the limbo of freak legislation or thrown into the junk heap of worn-out harness and smashed-up hacks. The rule requires hackmen to keep a fare card in a little leather pocket in the back part of the vehicle. Green was arrested for ignoring this law. He said it was a facile way to Judge Wilcox that his fare card had been lost or stolen and that he applied to the police for another. They produced the card but wanted to charge him 10 cents. He spurned the offer and drove away, cardless.

He was thereupon subsequently arrested. Judge Wilcox allowed Green to go with a reprimand, a sort of blanket reprimand for the whole force of Honolulu hackdrivers. The judge said in effect that whether hackmen liked the regulations or not, they would be enforced. He intimated that the hackmen as a class were too ambitious and held too exalted notions of their ability to influence the powers that be.

This hackman perhaps would be real nice and hand hack a little item of overcharge should any of his patrons happen to have the chance. All of them do. And he may be trying to reverse the Mark Twain act and have the police department revoked for overcharge.

Death Record of a Day.

Kanai, a Japanese infant, died yesterday of pneumonia, and the interment took place at Makiki cemetery. Thomas Phillips, a native of Great Britain, aged 39 years, died at his home at Kapiolani park, near Camp McKinley. The cause was chronic nephritis. Burial at Nuuanu Cemetery.

A resident of the relief camp on Lunalu street named Nagamatsu Nakao, a Japanese, aged 29 years, died yesterday of beriberi. The remains were buried at Makiki.

George Hakalo, an infant, Hawaiian, died at the Makiki relief camp of bronchitis. Burial at Kawaiaha.

Mary Raymond, aged 30 years, Hawaiian, residing at the end of Kawaiaha street, died of pneumonia. Interment in Catholic cemetery.

About the Registration.

Acting Revenue Collector Hasson has mailed to all plantation managers and to all lawyers in the islands, regulations for the registration of Chinese. This was done merely to disseminate information upon the subject. Mr. Hasson says there is no possibility for the registration to begin before February 1 and reiterates his statement that no appointments of deputies or clerks for the work will be made until after the arrival of Mr. Chamberlain, the new collector.

Cloud Photographs.

The demand for the best in photography has been met by King Bros. in their latest productions of cloud effects, finished in platinum.

Familiar and beautiful scenes surrounding Honolulu are now made in the most attractive form.

This is made possible by a discovery which permits treatment of the ordinary plate in such a way as to make them sensitive to certain color rays absolutely necessary in making perfect cloud photos. No means are spared in the production of these photos and it is a pleasure to note that their efforts are being appreciated.
